The perfect seating solution for all industrial, laboratory and factory environments. The Lab series is sturdily built to withstand many demanding situations.

The moulded polyurethane shell has been created to resist chemicals (particular acid), to be simple to clean and easy to maintain.

The Lab series features glides on both Stool and Perching stool models to restrict base movement; contoured midi-seat on the Perching model to aid rapid transition from resting to standing; ergonomically moulded backrest and seat with adjustable back height on the Operator model to provide the maximum of comfort.

All models feature drafting height gaslift and footrest.
